

INSECTABET

By Steve Heron

Armies of active ants annoying acrobatic Aphids
Bed Bugs biting bottoms beneath baby blankets
Classy Cicadas and clever Crickets clicking colourful castanets
Dung Beetles dragging doggy doings onto dungheaps
Eager Earwigs entertaining enthusiastic entomologists eating enchiladas
Frisky Fleas flipping freely from the flying trapeze
Grasshoppers gobbling great green globs of goatgrass
Hornets haplessly hovering homeward harassing helpless Horseflies
Inchworms idly inching inch-by-inch, incognito
Jassids in jazzy jackets jumping joyfully
Keen Kissing bugs keep kissing Katydids
Lazy Ladybirds lounging on lavish lettuce leaves
Multitudes of Mozzies menacing Mottled Moths
Nine nits knitting nifty knickers nightly
Owl-flies outsmarting orchardists offering oranges
Paper-wasps persistently pestering Praying Mantids
Queen Bees quietly quoting quick questions
Rampaging Rhinoceros beetles running rapidly on ragged rugs
Stick insects silently swaying like stalwart statues
Termites timidly taking turns to taste ten types of timber
Underwings unveiling unbelievable underwear
Vine Borer... visiting vegetables in velvet vests ... very boring

Wheat Weevils wearily wallowing in warehouses of wheat

X marks the spot on the back of a Crusader Beetle

Yellow Mealworm beetles yodeling and yelling – YES!

Zany Zygotera zigzagging and zooming in on zucchinis

END

DRAFT - Steve Heron